Each year on the night of August 13, the Summer Fireworks Festival is held at Sakurabuchi Park. Around 2,000 astonishing fireworks light up the night sky. A major spectacle is the 150-metre "fire cascade". When a wire strung along the bank of the river is lit, it sparks above the water. Come and see this awe-inspiring silver cascade as it is reflected off the water's surface.

This is followed by dance and bonfire. The Hiondory Torch/fire dance started as a way to remember the souls that passed away during the the battle of Nagashino and the Warring States era, and is held dramatically at the war ruin Shingen Zuka. Local people perform with massive torches (2-3m long, 80cm in diameter). It's an event with Bon-Odori dances, performances of Japanese Taiko drums, and both tezutsu and regular fireworks. This summer tradition has been held for over 40 years in the city of Shinshiro during the Obon Festival, when people living outside of the city come back home to visit their families and pay their respects to ancestors' graves.
